NC DIDI ANNOUNCES FAYETTEVILLE DEFENSE INDUSTRY TOWN HALL

Raleigh, NC March 19th, 2018th – The North Carolina Defense Industry Diversification Initiative (NC DIDI) will host a town hall entitled the “Primed and Ready: Charlotte Town Hall Contractors and Suppliers Town Hall” on April 12th, 2018. Participants will discuss solutions to the challenges being faced by businesses who contract or subcontract with the Department of Defense in the state of North Carolina.

“Over the past year we have worked diligently to develop, coordinate and deploy a pilot project that serves the manufacturing and service industries in the defense industry cluster. We are starting to see the fruits of that labor and are ecstatic about sharing the preliminary results with the community.” said Phil Mintz, Executive Director of North Carolina State University’s Industry Expansion Solutions. “This is just the beginning of a larger initiative to continue to enhance standards and maintain sustainability.

“Surveying North Carolina’s defense business industry was done in an effort to acquire derived actionable insights from the data generated throughout the supply chain. After capturing thoughts on how this process could be streamlined, this initiative is now positioned to make recommendations for a strategic plan for the states Defense contractors and suppliers.” said Secretary Larry Hall, of the North Carolina Department of Military and Veterans Affairs and Co-Chairman of NC DIDI. “These insights foster economic growth, job creation and innovation.

NC DIDI will present the results of the state’s first defense industry supply chain study to community and the successes of companies that took part in the Commercialization Pilot Project. Additionally, they will reveal an action plan for the states’ defense industry contractors and suppliers, distribute information about resources specific to the region and share knowledge gathered from Prime Contractors. The event is being sponsored by the NC Veterans Business Association.

The event will be held at Fayetteville Technical Community College located at 2201 Hull Road in Fayetteville, NC. The event will be held in the Neill Currie Building in room i3D. The presentation will begin at 12:00pm and conclude at 2:00pm. The attendance of DoD contracting companies, economic development officers and procurement experts is requested. Lunch will be served. While the event is free, registration is highly recommended. Registration is open www.ncdidi.com or at EventBrite.

NC DIDI was developed as a proactive response to changes in federal defense spending in the state. The initiative seeks to ensure that the defense supply chain remains robust, so that it is able to quickly absorb sudden high demands from Department of Defense agencies.

The presence of the media is requested.
